Shhhhh!

Bruce isnt to clever today, he didnt sleep much, & as I slept next to him, I know cos everytime I looked at him he was awake & I didnt sleep much.

He didnt want to go for a walk & he has not eaten anything, hes drinking though. I will see how he goes tonight & tomorrow morning, if hes no better, back to the vets we go. :(

Awww, poor Brucie, didn't he have any painkillers from the Vet?

Poor you too.

Hope he feels better real soon :kiss:

what are you feeding him Sarah, is it his normal food or is he having a wee scrambled egg treat?

Re:Bruce & Hachiko

He has just plain boiled chicken.. Will do him some scrambled egg this evening... Just want him to eat something, hes has had a few treats, but thats it...:(

He has every right to be off his food for a day or two to be fair. Bit of scrambled egg, they love it. Kobi likes boiled eggs too when he`s having an off day. Or cottage cheese was a fave of Keykos.

Chin up - it wont take him long!

Love the picture!!

Poor lad, he will be suffering a little after the general anaesthetic. As long as he is drinking for the time being he is fine. Try the eggs and if no improvement by the morning call the vets for reassurance if nothing else.

Gentle hugs to him for us here. xx

Sorry - Slow today, yep, as Donna said hes had his breakfast, had a nice walk & is alot happier today, yay!! Took him to pets at home today for a treat too, & wanted to take him somewhere nice in the car, as opposed to the nasty vets.

Hes getting there!!! :)

Good boy Brucie :kiss: :kiss:

If all else fails where food is concerned, try cat food. They love it

Hurray for Sir Brucie!!!!

Now you're on the up, keep it going and it won't be long before you're back on the beach harassing the seagulls again.

Looks like he's saying "Ha, fooled them all!!! Look sorry for myself and I get treats and new toys!!!"

He is such a gloriously regal looking bear.

Snuggles to him from me and the rest of our little world!!
